FROM THE HILLS OF WESTERN WISCONSIN

By Mike Gilbert, May 2003

The Ameraucana Breeders Club currently has two open positions available on the Board of Directors. Specifically, the Southwestern and the Southeastern districts each need a leader. Duties of district directors are outlined in the Bylaws which are reproduced on page nine of the ABC Handbook (blue cover). According to the club Constitution, Article V, Section 3, "open positions . . shall be filled by a person selected by the president and approved by majority vote of the Board of Directors." See page eight of the Handbook Consequently, as your current president I'm asking any and all members who reside in the Southwestern or the Southeastern District to contact me if there is an interest in serving fellow members in a leadership role. E-mail me at ameraucana@aol.com, send regular mail at W5171 Baker Rd., Holmen, Wisconsin 54636, or call me (evenings or weekends) at (608)857-3386. We can operate without a full complement of directors, but certainly would function more effectively with a director for each district. If you have the time and inclination, please consider serving. The following information, while optional, would be helpful in the decision-making process: a short personal history; a brief description of past involvement with breeding and showing chickens and/or bantams; favorite family and social activities; other organizational memberships; and a brief statement of how one should serve his or her district. I know that seems like a lot, but we do want to select the best candidates. To borrow a familiar slogan, "We are looking for a few good men (or women)."

For those of us interested in poultry genetics, the following two internet websites are invaluable. The first is found at: http://marsa_sellers.tripod.com/geneticspages/page0.html This site has both elementary and advanced poultry genetic information, definitions of terms, a table of chicken genes with comments of interest, and much, much more. Highly recommended.

The second is found at: http://groups.msn.com/onagadori/_homepage.msnw?pgmarket=en-us

Or you can find it by typing in the word Onagadori in your search engine and hitting enter. This site, while primarily about the longtailed poultry breeds, has a message board which is used by folks with extensive knowledge in the field of poultry genetics. Questions get answered by "experts." Note: Expert = someone from out of town

Hopefully many of you subscribe to Poultry Press and have run across our monthly column which is entitled simply "Ameraucana Breeders Club." We were recently contacted by the Showbird Journal to provide an article for that monthly publication as well. They agreed to accept the same material we send Poultry press, though I may modify it somewhat from time to time due to a slightly different demographic. We do run club ads currently in each of these two fine publications.

The American Bantam Association finally has established a link on their website (www.bantamclub.com) to our A.B.C. website. Because of the delay, we are promised extra coverage/space in this year's A.B.A. annual yearbook. This book is second to none, and all A.B.A. members receive it free of charge. A.B.A. membership is a good value.

By the time this is read, the Ameraucana Breeders Club may have a new flyer or mini-brochure available to interested parties. Basic breed information, color pictures, and contact information are included. Thanks to Barb Campbell for doing the production work, and thanks also to her committee of Rita Johnson and John Blehm for their ideas and assistance. Contact Barb for a sample; she can provide you with the very reasonable cost of production and mailing. This should be a great promotional tool.

As usual for this time of year, the Gilbert's poultry facilities are full of young and growing Ameraucanas, both large and bantam. If you have a special need contact us early for late summer or fall delivery.

Finally, congratulations to North-central Director John Blehm and his wife Kathy who celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary with a gathering of family and friends on May 26th. As this was written, Mary and I were preparing for an extended weekend trip to Michigan to help them celebrate. (I suspect a little chicken business may be transacted)

Until next time, take good care of those future champions! And think Lucasville!

WHAT COLOR?

By John W. Blehm, 5/22/03

"Red and yellow, black and white they are precious in His site...Jesus loves the little children of the world" That's a neat song and I used it the other evening to help try to explain to our four year old granddaughter, Leah, about the different skin colors of people. I'm considered white, but knowing that snow is white I am not "truly" white. So called red and yellow skinned people sure don't match the colors of my old red and yellow Crayola crayons.

It was a let down when I found out that "blue" chickens are more of what I call a mouse gray color and "silver" birds are mostly black & white. And what do they mean when they say the white part should be "silvery white"? I've seen silver coins and know they want the white to be white, not diluted or mixed with silver.

I know that the written "Standard" is what we should breed to, but without seeing what is meant by the words we wouldn't have a clue. Words have meanings and the descriptive words we use need to have the same meanings to all of us in the poultry fancy. I take my camera to the poultry shows that I attend and take pictures of the winning birds, so I can better understand not only what is meant by some of the color descriptions, but also type (shape). There is no sense in rewriting the Standard to fit my understanding, so I've learned to accept it.

It's not only color varieties that we must learn, but also what is meant by the color descriptions of the other parts of the birds. You've heard of a bay horse, but Ameraucana eye color is supposed to be reddish bay. Legs should be slate, dark slate or black, depending on the variety. We used to raise some cattle and many had horns. The beaks on the Ameraucanas should be horn, light horn or dark horn colored. Red combs seems to be an easy description to understand, but wait...red ear lobes seems to be a problem area. If you read the APA and ABA Standards you will see that the males have red lobes, but the females may be "pale" red. It is sometimes difficult to agree on the color of the female's lobe color, so judge the male's more severely and make sure neither show any "enamel" white color.

When in doubt read the Standards, study the winning birds at shows and ask questions of the old timers. They had to learn it too.

I was green behind the ears, but then I saw red as I thought I might be yellow...now I'm blue.

Greetings from the South Central District

The show season is almost complete with one more special Ameraucana meet scheduled for Buffalo, MO., at the Southern MO., Poultry Club Show on June 7th. It's been a very good year for Ameraucanas as they have become more popular and filled the champion row coops more than ever. Looking ahead we have scheduled several meets at members request. Claremore is our district meet-Thanksgiving week-end; Idabel, OK. state meet-first week-end in Nov.; Abilene-Texas state meet-Oct. 25th;

El Dorado, Ark. state meet-first week-end in April 2004. Hopefully, there will be some more meets requested.

The hatching season has ended for some, while others are continuing, and a few are just starting. I had a chance to visit with several members at the recent special meet in Idabel, OK. The Butler Family has hatched a couple dozen blue and black to show along with several other breeds of fowl that they raise. The O'Rear Family was bubbling with enthusiasm as they have hatched several hundred, mostly blue along with some black. Robin O'Rear reported good sales with a large demand for blue chicks. Samantha O'Rear had jr. champion AOSB on a black pullet at the SEOPC show in Idabel.

Jake Bolling of Marland,OK. had Res.Champ. AOSB on a black hen. The jr. Ameraucanas shut out the naked necks in the class for the top two places. In the open show one of our blue hens was selected as Res. AOSB and our best black hen was

Res. Breed. We are looking forward to the Hinton Family which includes Jake Bolling to join the ABC as they now have a nice blue cockerel to mate their three black hens-an excellent start in both varieties. Angela Stanley, of Conway, MO., has hatched about a hundred-mostly blue with some black. Angela, is also working on a Brown-Red project, which the breed needs, as there are only a very few large fowl Brown-Red. Angela, is an active leader-working with many jr. poultry fanciers in the Springfield area. Edna and C.W. Carey, of Cross Plains, TX., have requested a state meet for the Abilene show on Oct. 25th. They have hatched many blacks as their pens are now full. Milton Dyer of Malvern, ARK., is just starting to hatch for the season. El Dorado, ARK., is in process of becoming the state meet. Angela and I have just completed our tenth hatch of the season, pushing the total to 1,135 with one more incubator to hatch.

Wishing everyone a great growing season and hope to see you at the shows this fall.

FROM KORALYN KIBBEE, NORTH WESTERN DISTRICT

Montana is moving forward, lots of new interest in poultry and I'm so happy to say I've sold two groups of wheaten ameraucana bantams, hoping to have some new members!

On May 10th we headed to the Bitterroot Valley, west of Missoula, MT, to give a Poultry Clinic. This was the first of this size to be given in Montana. It was a beautiful 3 1/2 hour drive. The clinic was held at a beautiful Country Club House. Those western Montana folks really treated us like royalty, complete with barbecue and everything else you could possibly want. Larry, myself and Beau McLean were the presenters of these topics: Housing (summer and winter), Showmanship, Breeding-Brahmas and Old English, and Grooming (I showed my awesome grooming box!). Questions were great, I "love" open discussion sessions! Some sixty-five people attended, they even had a very exciting "raffle". Also, two tables full of books and great handouts. It was a well worthwhile adventure. I want to say how much we appreciate Beau, he is an awesome 17 year old that has taken on the Youth Rep position for Montana. He helps put on the APA and ABA youth shows, writes articles for the press...just helps everywhere, even has started to judge 4H shows.

I'd like to mention my new Ameraucana babies from John Blehm in Michigan. They came through the mail in great shape, lost only "1". I got several varieties, hope and plan to grow them up and show them at the 2nd Annal Big Sky Expo on Oct 4 & 5 - some will be "for sale".

NORTH EASTERN DISTRICT REPORT

Well I hope you can come back to the Great Buckeye State for our ABC National on Oct.4,2003. I have showed many times at Lucasville and it is a #1 show in my book. If you would like a certain Special put up I need it in my hands by JUNE 28, 2003, because JULY 5, 2003, I must send the list of Awards Specials to David Adkins (Show Sect. for the Southern Ohio Show). The ABC Annual meeting will be sometime on Sat, will have the time and the location in the Fall Newsletter!

Have hatched 200 chicks to date, about 75 are Ameraucana Bantams, hope to have at least half a dozen for the fall National. Its 85 degrees today, great weather for the middle of April. I must get busy and make many condition pens. Some varieties hatched better than others. Wheatens are my biggest surplus.

Before I forget, our hats are off to our new Sect. Barbara for a great first newsletter. My motto: communication is the key.

*From sunup 'til sundown,
a good time to be had by all!*
Good Food! $500 in Awards! Fun for All!

Make your reservations now! The motels will be found at Portsmouth, Ohio, about 15 minutes south of the show at Lucasville. All are on Highway 23 North at Portsmouth. Try any of these three:

Days Inn of Portsmouth, phone (740)354-2851, or toll free (800)329-7466. Apparently there are two Days Inn's, so if using the toll free number, ask for the one on Highway 23 on the north end of town. No pool, about $50 plus tax.

Super 8 Motel, call nationwide toll-free (800)800-8000. It has a big free breakfast, indoor pool, and other amenities. $63 plus tax.

Holiday Inn Express, around $80 plus tax. Free breakfast, indoor pool, ESPN Call (800)HOLIDAY.(465-1329)

For show info keep an eye on the Poultry Press or contact David Adkins, Show Sect for the Southern Ohio Poultry Association 1-740-259-2852 (evenings) or 1988 Cook Rd, Lucasville, OH 45648 We need to get all our awards information in to Dave Adkins by early to mid-July, so if you are thinking about sponsoring any awards this year, let Neil Townsend know as soon as you can. Contact info for Neil can be found in the Board of Directors listing.
